İMKB Sustainability Index Project: Survey Results

Of 215 companies from 11 sectors attended to the survey 62% have a sustainability strategy although they have difficulties in putting those strategies into practice

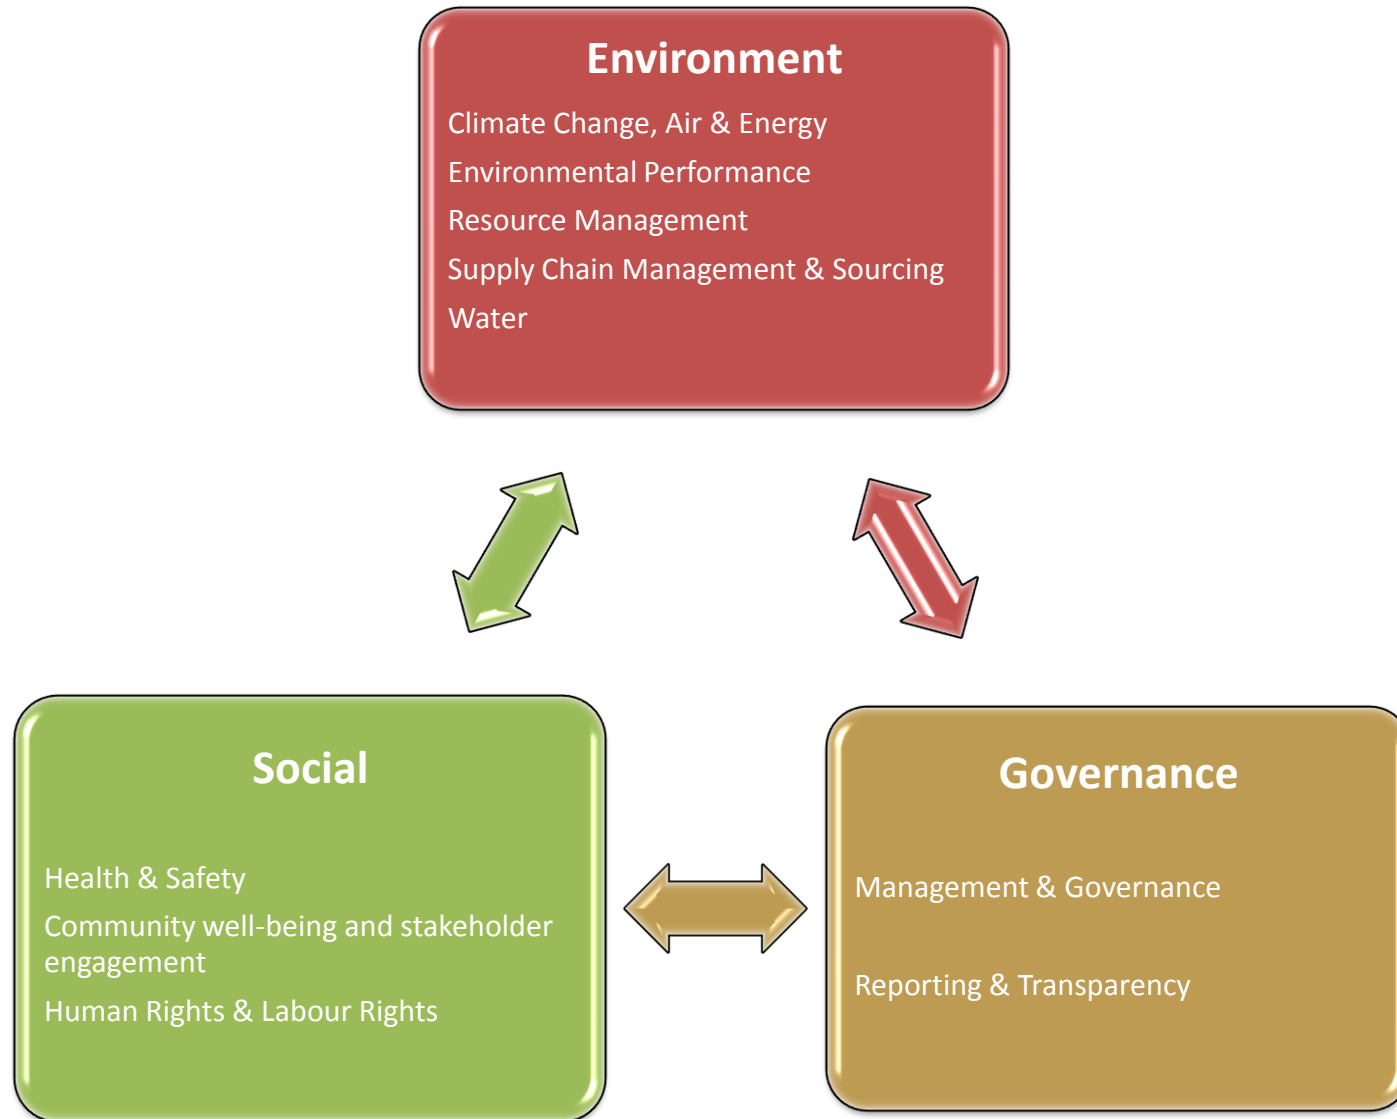

Companies mostly regard the economic and social aspects of the sustainability while environmental concerns are given less importance

95% of the companies have define sustainability referring to their business models

Costs and lack of enough knowhow about sustainability are two main reasons for not having any sustainability strategy

A great proportion of the companies stated that they want to take part within İMKB Sustainability Index
